HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
AND
Hoofland's German Tonic.
The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts,) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.
Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.
Those who have no objection to the combination of the bitters, as stated, will use
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.
They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.
The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc, is very apt to have its functions deranged. The liver, sympathizing as closely with the stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:
Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.
The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigation and inquiries possesses true merit, is skillfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well known remedies—
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
AND
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
Prepared by DR. C. M. JACKSON,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public.
These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.
DEBILITY,
Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Excess, etc.
There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.
PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,
And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.
NOTICE.
It is a well established fact that fully one half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; on the contrary, they are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.
To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.
WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN,
Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.
Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. These, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.
TESTIMONIALS.
HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes:
Philadelphia, March 18, 1867.
"I find 'Hoofland's German Bitters' is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system.
Yours, truly, GEO. W. WOODWARD."
HON. JAMES THOMPSON,
Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.
Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.
"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON."
FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,
Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.
Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir: I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear conscience and particularly in the confidence of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.
Yours, very respectfully,
J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates St.
FROM REV. E. D. FENDALL.
Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.
I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver.
Yours truly,
E. D. FENDALL.

THE MEETING-PLACE.
—:o:—
The ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads.—Isaiah xxxv. 10.

Where the faded flower shall freshen—
Freshen never more to fade;
Where the shaded sky shall brighten—
Brighten never more to shade;
Where the sun blaze never scorches,
Where the star-beams cease to chill;
Where no tempest stirs the echoes
Of the wood, or wave, or hill;
Where the morn shall wake in gladness,
And the noon the joy prolong;
Where the daylight dies in fragrance,
'Mid the burst of holy song—
Brother, we shall meet and rest
'Mid the holy and the blest.

Where no shadow shall bewilder;
Where life's vain parade is o'er;
Where the sleep of sin is broken,
And the dreamer dreams no more;
Where no bond is ever severed,
Partings, claspings, sob, and moan,
Midnight waking, twilight weeping,
Heavy noontide—all are done;
Where the child has found its mother,
Where the mother finds the child;
Where dear families are gathered
That were scattered on the wild—
Brother, we shall meet and rest
'Mid the holy and the blest.

Where a blasted world shall brighten,
Underneath a bluer sphere,
And a softer, gentler sunshine
Shed its healing splendour here;
Where earth's barren vales shall blossom,
Putting on their robe of green;
And a purer, fairer Eden
Be where only wastes have been;
Where a King, in kingly glory
Such as earth has never known,
Shall assume the righteous sceptre,
Claim and wear the holy crown—
Brother, we shall meet and rest
'Mid the holy and the blest.
—DR. BONAR.

COULDN'T AFFORD TO MARRY.

It was noticed among the friends of Mr. George Lane that, for some cause unknown to them, a somber hue had fallen on his thoughts.

The reason was inferred, and correctly. Arrows from a pair of bright eyes had wounded him, and the pain found no abatement night or day.—Was the maiden coy or unkind? No—the maiden was familiar and tender. There was healing in the eyes that shot forth arrows.

And the pain found no abatement night or day? None! George Lane was no blind lover, ready to risk all consequences in pursuit of any object, but a sensible young man, who counted the cost. This was the reason of his trouble. Love is sweet; but life is a thing of sober earnest; and as George put the love and life together, taking things as they were, he could not see how love was to leave any permanent sweetness.

An intimate friend holding him by the hand one day said:

"George, my dear fellow, what has come over you? I don't believe you have smiled for a month. Are you in love?

"Yes," was the frank reply.

"Aha! a sickness of the mind. Well, I'm glad to know it's nothing more serious. Love wounds to heal. If, as the poet says:

"'Keen transport throbs through every vein,
It is also true that we never know
'Too sweet a pain.'

"There is no sweetness in my case," said the young man. "The pain is sharp, and there was no medicine on the arrow point."

"Then the maiden is unkind?"

"No."

"She loves you in return?"

"If I have any skill in reading eyes."

"What then? Are the parents unwilling?"

"I have never asked them?"

"You are a strange lover to look so woe-be-gone. Where rests the trouble?"

"There is much beyond love," said Lane.

"Yes."

"Marriage and cost of living?"

"True. But you have a good salary. Has the young lady nothing?"

"She has a father, who is doing an excellent business; the family live at an expense which must cover, if not more than exhaust, all the profits."

"Who is the young lady? I will not betray your confidence."

"The youngest daughter of Abraham West."

"Hardware merchant?"

"The same."

"I know her, and a sweet girl she is, Nellie West. Why, George, she is the very one for you. And you have favor in her eyes! I congratulate you."

"You needn't then," was the sombre-faced reply of Lane, "for I am not witless enough to bare my neck to the halter of matrimony, if the act is to bind me to a perpetual sordfom."

"What do you mean?"

"Simply, that the manner in which Mr. West has raised his daughters unfits them for the position of wives to young men of my condition. They have the education; the tastes and the accomplishments we desire and must have; but their habits and expectations are fatal dowries for any poor young man to accept. They have no fortune to bring their husbands, and yet must be supported in comparative elegance.—The idea of useful employment does not seem to have entered their minds. Work, in their view, involves something of degradation. Ah, well I must dismiss a fond illusion, that was sweet while it lasted. I shall go no farther in this unsafe direction. Some other man, bolder, or less inclined to count the cost, must win consent from a heart it would be a life long happiness to call my own."

"Nonsense, George," replied the friend. "If the young lady really loves you, she will adapt herself to your circumstances. Nellie is a charming girl. Press your suit, and after gaining her consent, talk over life's sober realties with her. She has sense and right feeling, will readily comprehend how much of happiness is involved in your prudential ideas. A woman who loves a man well enough to marry him, will cheerfully accommodate herself to his circumstances.

"Accommodate!" said the young man curling his lips. "I don't like the word. It hurts my pride."

"Pride is never a good counsellor, friend George."

"My manhood, then. It hurts my manhood. A young woman without a dollar in the world, 'accommodate' herself to the circumstances of a young man whose income is twelve hundred a year! You can't reconcile me to the case under that plea. My pride, manliness, self-love, or self esteem—as you will—revolts against the humiliation. No, no—George Lane has independence as well as prudence, and thinks their counsels worth heeding."

"While I think," answered the friend, "that George Lane is a little too high strung for the case under consideration, I know Nellie very well, and think her a sensible girl.—True, the way in which her parents have conducted her home education is not favorable to just views in life.—But love is clear-sighted and strong-hearted. Take her out of her present false relation to society, and she will make, I am sure, a good wife in every respect."

"No, sir," was firmly answered.—"Even as I talk with you, and listen to what you say, I grow more resolute in my purpose to recede from a dangerous position. If Nellie was alone in the world I might act differently. But look at the case as it stands, and see what risks are involved. There are two older sisters both married; and their husband's noses, to use a homely phrase, are well down upon the grindstone and likely to remain there. Already both have gone through the ordeal of a fall in business—and no wonder.

"Not being able as clerks to maintain the domestic establishments, they were foolish enough to set up in imitation of other people as silly as themselves; they must have stores of their own, from the income of which they drew with such unscrupulous hands, that more than all the profits were consumed in fast living."

"Somehow or other, in their breakdown they have managed to keep their fine furniture and houses, and still live before the world in what to me is shameless extravagance. Both are clerks again; but how they manage to keep up appearances as they do, passes my comprehension. I have met their wives a few times at Mr. West's, and they hold their heads as high as queens. I am nobody in their estimation! Why, the jewelry, lace, and other showy things that they flaunt in people's eyes so shamelessly—seeing that somebody besides their husband's have actually paid for them—cost more than a third of my year's salary—"

"But you have nothing to do with these ladies," interrupted the friend.

"True, and I don't mean to have any thing to do with them. But the case would have another bearing were I a brother in-law. I would not have their bad influences operating on my wife. She must have as costly outfitting as they. She must have a fine house to live in, and as fine furniture to display to her friends; and my nose must come down to a grindstone, like the noses of their unfortunate husbands. I have gone over the matter twenty times or more, and can see it no different. It won't do, and there is no use in trying to harmonize things that are utterly incongruous."

"Take another view. Suppose Nellie came into my views of these things and turned herself away from all these allurements. Suppose we, like sensible people, lived below our income, and set ourselves to make provision for a time when expenses would be greater; I would gradually accumulate; set up business, perhaps, and rise into a position of some influence in the way of money matters. Then I must consent to be ruined, or written down as a miser and a churl by the whole family. Papa lives on the extension principle, just making both ends meet, as I infer. Well, tight times come every now and then. He has failed once in his life and may fail again. When the strain equals resistance, a slight increase of force snaps shafts of timber. If papa gets in trouble, and son-in-law is all right, son-in-law must go to the rescue, sink or swim. It won't answer, you see. I've counted the cost, and think it too great; have looked over the hedge before leaping, and am afraid of the ditch on the other side."

"I see how it is," answered the friend, "you have large caution."

"Am I not right?"

"Perhaps so. But lovers, whose hearts are as much interested as yours seems to be, are not apt to throw prudential reasons of this character in the way of their happiness. They are usually inclined to take counsel of love alone."

"I have seen pictures of love blindfolded, but I think love a false god."

"As you will," said the friend. "But this I know; if my heart were interested in Nellie, I would never abandon her on the plea that you have advanced; at least not before I was well assured that the false life, which by a kind of domestic necessity she has thus far led, had so fostered pride and vanity as to deprave her understanding. Be assured, George, that in this you sin not against your own heart, but the maiden's!"

"I spent an evening with her last week," he replied. "I went with my mind more than half made up to let my lips betray my feelings. It so happened that she was not alone. A young lady was her guest; a very sprightly, outspoken, critical, rather sharp-tongued girl of eighteen or twenty—smart enough for twenty, and thoughtless enough for sixteen. People and things were talked about with a flippancy and freedom neither charitable nor delicate. Among other subjects, the marriage of a friend was discussed, and the well or ill of the case settled in a manner that made my cheek burn."

"I never thought Amy the simpleton to get married in that mean sort of a way," remarked the young lady." "She must have wanted a husband! If a man cannot do better by me than that, I'd advise him to give my door a wide berth."

"Nellie laughed at her friend, and returned a few assenting words that stung me to the quick. The present of a ring by the young husband was remarked upon. Nellie said it was an emerald, but her friend pronounced it green glass, adding that nothing but a diamond would have suited her ideas. I waited in uncomfortable suspense for Nellie's response. It came in these words, "Nothing but diamonds for me."

"Thoughtlessly said, George!" remarked his friend. "You take too seriously the light speeches of girls, who often talk without thinking, just to hear themselves talk."

"If it were jesting," answered Lane, "the subject was unfortunate at the time. But this was not all. My ears were quick; and I took in every inflection of voice. Nellie said many other things connected with the subject of their young friend's marriage to a poor young man who could not afford her a respectable place in society, that it would be folly for me to forget. When I left her house that evening, I drew a veil over her image in my heart, and I have tried not to lift that veil since. The pain it is costing me I have not been able entirely to conceal, as witness your observation of a change in my appearance. But I am strong enough to do what reason tells me is right. No word or intimation of what is in my heart have I passed to the young lady, so that I can turn from her without dishonor. Heaven send her a happy lot in life!"

The voice of George Lane faltered a little on the closing sentence. He was fully in earnest, as shown by his subsequent conduct. More deeply than he had imagined was the heart of Nellie interested, as her face, dreamy eyes, and quiet manner long afterwards witnessed. But he did not return. Two years afterwards she married, beginning life with a young husband just in business, who drew from his light capital $2,000 to furnish his house in style suited to the social grade in which she had been moving. In three years extravagant living had consumed more than all he was worth, and under the pressure of a "tight money market," he failed and was sold out by the sheriff, Nellie being forced to go back with her two children, to her father's house The husband, in a fit of desperation, went to California, and died from sickness and exposure among the mines.

In the meantime George Lane who could never obliterate Nellie's image from his heart, continued to live a single life. He was now in business, and gradually accumulated property. The death of her husband, and in a few months afterwards the death of her father, awakened anew his interest. He knew she was poor and dependent; and he learned incidentally, with pain, that since her father's death she was living in the house of a brother-in law who was not able to support his own family. That one still dear to him should be thus dependent, and as he felt, humiliated, hurt the young man. He could not bear the thought, and began turning over in his mind one suggestion of means after another, looking to her relief. But her considerations of delicacy and propriety were in the way. He felt that he could do nothing.

One morning he met her in the street. He was walking with his eyes on the pavement, thinking of Nellie, when looking up suddenly he saw her, at a distance approaching. She was poorly clad; and had a bundle on her arm, which Lane recognized at a glance as work from a clothing store.

Their eyes met and rested on each other. Lane made a motion as if he was about to speak; but Nellie dropped her veil over her face and moved on with a quicker pace. Ere the veil fell he saw an expression in her eyes, and on her changed and wasted countenance, that filled his heart with the tenderest and saddest feelings. What a history of suffering was revealed!

The rest need not be told. If Nellie lost her lover when skies were bright, she found him when the rain was falling into the dark days of her life, and when painful experience had made her vision clear.

On the lover's conduct in turning from Nellie in her sunny days we give no opinion. We only record the fact, and give the reason. Inference and opinions are with the reader—and the lesson also.

FOUNDER.—I send you a recipe for founder, which, having used for five years, know to be too valuable to keep from the public. One tablespoonful of pulverized alum thrown well back in the horse's mouth just as soon as you find out he is foundered. Keep from water during the day. In every case that I have tried it, it has proved a sure cure. A friend of mine had a young mare he thought a great deal of. We were out in the country and drove pretty fast. On coming home he told the boy to feed her a little corn; he gave her a good feed of corn and afterwards some oats. In the morning she was badly foundered. I gave her a dose of alum as above, and no water till night, next day you would not have known it. The above is worthy of a trial; but it is better not to feed or water your horse when hot by hard driving.—Rural World.

THE PRINTER'S ESTATE.—The printer's dollars—where are they? A dollar here, and a dollar there, scattered over numerous small towns all over the country, miles and miles apart—how shall they be gathered together? The paper maker, the building owner, the journeyman compositor, the grocer, the tailor, and his assistants to him in carrying on his business, have their demands, hardly ever so small as a single dollar. But the mites from here and there must be diligently gathered and patiently hoarded, or the wherewith to discharge the liabilities will never become sufficiently bulky. We imagine the printer will have to get up an address to these widely scattered dollars something like the following:

"Dollars, halves, quarters, dimes, and all manner of fractions into which ye are divided, collect yourselves, and come home! Ye are wanted! Combinations of all sorts of men that help the printer to become a proprietor, gather such force and demand with such good reasons for your appearance at his counter, that nothing short of a sight of you will appease them. Collect yourselves; for valuable as you are in the aggregate, single you will never pay the cost of gathering.—Come in here, in single file, that the printer may form you into battalion, and send you forth again, to battle for him and vindicate his credit."

Kind reader, are you sure you have not a couple of the printer's dollars sticking about your "old clothes?"

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.—In a New Hampshire town there lived an ignorant, irreligious, worthless family, by the name of Ransom, no member of which had been seen inside a church within the "memory of the oldest inhabitant." The village pastor, after years of failure, had at length "almost persuaded" two of the younger scions to promise attendance for one Sabbath; but the fear that they would be the subject of some personal remarks still deterred them. They were in great terror lest they should be publicly upbraided for their misdoings, and called to account for their wickedness. After much exertion their fears were quieted, and on the following Sunday the eyes of the good pastor's congregation were astonished at the unwonted presence of the aforesaid Ransoms. All went well until the reading of the second hymn, which was the familiar "Blow ye the trumpet, blow," etc. Imagine the effect when, at the end of the line, "Return ye ransom'd sinners home," the elder of our heroes seized his hat, and, with long strides towards the door, shouted, "Come along home, Bill; I knowed they'd be flinging it at us if we came here."—N. H. paper.

SHE NEVER LEAVES HIM.—Look at the career of a man as he passes thro' the world; at a man visited by misfortune! How often is he left by his fellow-men to sink under the weight of his afflictions, unheeded and alone! One friend of his own sex forgets him; another abandons him, a third, perhaps, betrays him; but faithful woman follows him in his afflictions with unshaken affection; braves the changes of feeling, of his temper, embittered by the disappointments of the world, with the highest of all virtue; in resigned patience ministers to his wants, even when her own are hard and pressing; she weeps with him, tear for tear, in his distresses, and is the first to catch and reflect a ray of joy, should but one light up his countenance in the midst of his sufferings; and she never leaves him in his misery while there remains one act of love, duty, or compassion to be performed. And at last, when life and sorrow come to an end, she follows him to the tomb with an ardor of affection which death itself cannot destroy.

☞ Mr. A. R. Hope has written a book about boys, in which he says some good things. He begins by classifying boys, and here are a couple of the classes: "1. Young gentlemen.—I shudder as I pen the disgusting name. You know what I mean?—the beardless beings who wish to be thought men and dandies, and to that end smoke, swear and swagger, with more or less impunity. If you go out into the streets on a Saturday afternoon you will see hundreds of them, whom you would like to take between your finger and thumb, and drop quietly into the gutter. 2. Mamma's Darlings.—A large and increasing class, I grieve to say, though I would speak tenderly of them, that their degradation is often caused by circumstances over which neither they nor the wisest of writers and teachers have any control; viz: fond and foolish mothers, who will make them wear comforters and goloshes, and keep them in the house when it is cold, and encourage them to cry when they are hurt."

"MAKE THE BEST OF IT."—A determination to make the best of everything is a wonderful smoother of the difficulties which beset us in our probationary scene. In Peter Pindar's story of the "Pilgrims and the Peas," two follows upon whom the penance of walking to a certain shrine with peas in their shoes, had been enjoined, are represented as having performed their tasks under very different circumstances, and in very different moods. One of them having taken the precaution to soften his peas by boiling them, tripped lightly and merrily over the ground; the other, who had not gumption enough to turn his hard pellets into a poultice by the same process, limped and howled all the way. It is pretty much the same in our pilgrimage through this "vale of tears." The impatient and imprudent travel on hard peas, the prudent and sagacious make themselves easy in their shoes, and run cheerfully the race that is set before them

THE GLOBE FOR THE CAMPAIGN

We propose to send the Globe to campaign subscribers, to the 15th of November, at the following rates:

To single subscribers, 50cts. per copy.
To clubs of 5 and less than 10, 40cts. " "
To clubs of 10 and less than 20, 35cts. " "
To clubs of 20 and upwards, 30cts. " "

The above rates will not cover expenses, but we are willing to contribute something that every voter in the county may have an opportunity to read the political news during the campaign. Our friends we hope will make an effort to get up clubs. Subscriptions invariably in advance.

The Nominating Convention.

The Republican County Nominating Convention will meet in the Court House to-day, (Tuesday 11th,) and it is to be hoped that harmony will prevail, and a strong ticket be nominated. Good men will be named for all the offices, and the most important duty for delegates to perform will be the selection of the strongest and best for all the offices from the highest to the lowest. The nomination of a strong ticket will be half the battle won. Some good men must be disappointed—all cannot be nominated—and it is important that those who may be among the disappointed receive honorable treatment and their active influence secured for the more successful. We hope all the delegates will meet together as a band of brothers and do the least injustice possible, so that when the nominations are made there may be no bad feelings existing to prevent a harmonious campaign and a solid victory for the whole ticket on the day of election.

☞The Democratic County Convention will meet to-morrow, Wednesday. The party machinery is working quietly but in earnest, and Republicans must keep their eyes open if they do not wish to be "picked up." For the Legislature, it is thought that John S. Miller will be again nominated. Other gentlemen, Mr. McAteer of Alexandria, and Dr. Thompson of Mill Creek, are also named for the same position, but we do not pretend to know what their strength will be in the Convention.

☞Charles G. Halpine, familiarly known as "Miles O'Reilly," died at his residence in New York, Monday morning, from an overdose of chloroform administered to relieve neuralgic pains. General Halpine was editor of the Citizen, a Democratic reform weekly, and also filled the very lucrative office of Register of New York city. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him for his genial qualities and his fine literary abilities.

☞It needed no Convention to nominate Grant—he was already the choice of the people. He and his brave comrades ended the war, and the people everywhere recognize him as the best man for the position of President, and they will try to elect him by a triumphant majority.

☞If Wade Hampton, the rebel General, wants to see Seymour and Blair elected because the Southern Confederacy will be recognized, Phil. Sheridan, the Union General, and a host beside, want to see Grant and Colfax elected, because the Union will be restored on a sure foundation.

☞The Journal & American editors say they don't know any good service the Democracy ever had an opportunity to render to the country. They might as well say sinners never had an opportunity to repent.

Seymour and the Rebels.

Mr. Seymour, says the Lebanon Courier, has always been a favorite with the rebels, because his sympathies were always with them. When Forrest, Vance, and the other rebels in the New York Convention rallied to his support, it was no transitory emotion that influenced them, but it was the development of long years of friendship and good understanding. Mr. Seymour never was a hearty supporter of the war for the suppression of the rebellion; on the contrary, he took the ground that there was no power in the Constitution for the suppression of attempts at secession, and he persistently threw every obstruction in the way of a vigorous and successful prosecution of the war. At the Convention of the Democrats held in Tweddle Hall, Albany, on the 21st of January, 1861, when the rebels were commencing their war for the destruction of the Union, Mr. Seymour made a speech in which he furiously assailed the men who were trying to save the Union, but had no words of condemnation for the traitors. He argued that successful coercion by the North was no less revolutionary than successful secession by the South. A few weeks after that meeting, Mr. Seymour declared to Judge C. H. Ruggles that he had read the Confederate Constitution, and it is preferable to the Federal Constitution. Now, why not avoid all trouble by ourselves adopting the Confederate Constitution?" Thus was Mr. Seymour in favor at that time of surrendering the Government to the rebels, and accepting Jeff. Davis as our President.

In 1862, when the people despaired of the success of the effort to put down treason from the inefficiency of M'Clellan and other officers of his character, Seymour ran for Governor of New York, and was elected. No one can forget the joy with which the rebels hailed his triumph. Stonewall Jackson, in passing over the railroad to Richmond, at every stopping place called for cheers for Seymour, and declared his election to be equal in service to the Confederate cause to a great victory in the field.

In 1864, Mr. Seymour presided over the Democratic National Convention at Chicago, and gave tone to its proceedings. The reader will recollect the character of that Convention—how it put on record its hostility to the efforts to conquer the traitors.—The resolutions demanded that the war should be stopped, that it was a failure, &c. Again on that occasion did Mr. Seymour's work carry joy to rebel hearts.

☞It is not so much the fact that such leading rebels as Hampton, Forrest, and Preston, were in the Democratic Convention, that makes them so repulsive to Union men, as the speeches that they have made since, in which they openly declare that with the election of Seymour and Blair, will be regained all that they expected to obtain when arrayed against the Boys in Blue, but in which they were so signally defeated under Grant. Their blatant utterances awaken just suspicions, and confirms the belief that we are still fighting the "war for the Union." We had hoped that the spirit of secession was dead when the clash of arms had ceased, but we cannot believe it when we read the declarations of every speaker who is now canvassing the South for the Democracy. They still speak their rebel sentiments, and encourage the rebel soldiers to vote as they fought. There may be those in the North who doubt that such utterances mean anything; but we would urge them to be undeceived. They mean as much now as they did in the beginning of the rebellion, when the same men went through the South prejudicing their hearers against the northern "mudsills" and "yankees," and by which they were successful in recruiting the rebel cause. We fought against that prejudice, and to some extent conquered it, and we are now called upon to check the same prejudice that is being re-awakened against us by the foolish Southern leaders. Is there any one who is willing to see men, making such speeches, entering our National halls? If there is he will vote for Seymour and Blair, and with their election we will see the rebel element of the South again triumphant, and glorying in the success of their lost cause.

☞Justice, union, harmony, and victory, should be the rallying cry of every Grant man in the county. United we win; divided we lose, to be laughed at by the Democracy.

Rebels to the Front.

The rebel Democracy in the South are inclined to resent the demand of the Democratic press in the North for a more moderate tone and that the prominent rebel leaders for the sake of prudence be kept somewhat in the background. The Charleston Mercury expresses itself as follows:

Not one honest man, south of Mason and Dixon's line, is ashamed of the musket he bore or the sword he drew in defense of the Confederate flag. The man who says that he is ashamed of it, lies. Let every honest man at the North be sure of the fact that the man who says so, wants to swindle money out of somebody. He is a knave either in the first or in the last step.

The Mobile Register, whose editor—John Forsyth—was a delegate to the Tammany Convention, speaks his mind after the following fashion:

The time for this style of caution has passed; and the "rebel" cry, like the entire cause of the Radicals, is played out. With the meeting and close of the great National Convention in Tammany Hall, July 4, we have entered upon a new phase of political career.

The Democracy of the North will therefore take notice, that the rebel leaders having taken the lead intend to keep it, let the consequences be what they will. The Register referring to the cordiality with which Hampton, Forrest and other rebels were received, goes on to say:

And now, so far from advising these gentlemen, including Admiral Semmes, not to appear in public as the advocates of Seymour and Blair, if we had our way, we would put them in the field of campaign in the North, and let them speak and canvass and utter the boldest truths that they feel, from every stump in the North and West. The period for sparring has gone past. We must gloves off now, and with bare knuckles, aye, with mailed hands, we must "up and at" the enemies of our liberty.

It is entirely evident that Democrats must either follow or break loose altogether from the association into which they have been forced with the rebel leaders, who flatter themselves that by electing Seymour and Blair, as Vance, of North Carolina, boasted, they will win all they fought for.—Pittsburg Commercial.

STATE CONVENTION OF COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS.—A Convention of the County Superintendents of Common Schools of this State was held at Harrisburg, commencing on Thursday afternoon, July 30th, and was called to order by Prof. J. P. Wickersham, State Superintendent, who made an address, and was shortly followed by Governor Geary. Prof. Wickersham remarked that the school interests of the State are attracting more attention now than at any time previous, and alluded to the fact that last year there was spent $1,300,000 for the building of school houses alone, and before the close of the present year Pennsylvania will have spent $2,500,000 for that purpose. He also alluded to the fact that the Legislature had increased the appropriation from $350,000 to $500,000. W. W. Woodruff, Superintendent of Chester county, was made President of the Convention. The following subjects were discussed: Examination of Teachers, in which five favored the use of the oral method, two favored the writing, and forty favored the use of both methods; the convention voted unanimously in favor of public examinations; The Visitation of Schools; Is it desirable to make any change in the law respecting school directors, in which it was resolved that the number, of school directors be reduced from six to three, and that they be paid, and that an oath be administered on assuming their duties; "Are the evils of absenteeism, irregular attendance and truancy, capable of being corrected or materially lessened by legal enactments?" in which compulsory enactments was favored. Many other topics were discussed, and the Convention adjourned on Saturday, the members being no doubt profited by their assembling together to discuss the interests of one of the best institutions of our State and Nation.

FOLLY OF THE OLD REBEL LEADERS.—With the opening of the Presidential campaign, and as the hopes of the Democratic politicians of the South begin to revive, the old Rebel leaders show their hands. Wade Hampton at Charleston, Robert Toombs at Atlanta, and others among the most prominent Rebels at other places, have been making most foolish and injurious speeches on the issues of the past and present. They appeal to the Rebel sympathies and memories of the Southern people and flaunt the rebel flag as the emblem of all that is heroic and noble. While pretending to denounce the radicals of the North, they in reality denounce the whole of the Northern people, Democrats as well as Republicans, who entered into or favored the war for the Union. They make their lost cause a holy one and boast of the part they took in it. They claim admiration when they should sue for forgiveness for the bloodshed, debt, and innumerable evils they have brought upon the country. However disposed generous minded people of the North may be to sympathize with them for their sufferings and disabilities, though brought upon themselves, and however ready they may be to accord to these Southerners the merit of bravery, they cannot forget the bloodshed and horrors of a great civil war, with the enormous burden of debt now weighing heavily upon the North, through the madness and crime of these same rebel leaders. There is a noble disposition to bury the hatchet of war, and, for the welfare of both sections in the future, to cultivate harmony; but this cannot be while such foolish men as Hampton and Toombs flaunt the rebel flag in the face of the Northern people.

A Member of the California Democratic Committee Declares for Grant and Colfax.

The following communication was addressed by P. H. Sibley to the Democratic State Central Committee of California, which he had been until lately a member:

GENTLEMEN OF THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE:—I would be doing violence to my own feelings, and guilty of unfair conduct to you, did I continue longer to share your counsels and possess myself of your plans in the coming political campaign. In sentiment and sympathy I am no longer with you. My judgment neither approves the platform of principles put forth by the New York city Convention, nor does my sense of duty to the country justify me in aiding to advance Horatio Seymour to the office of President of the United States. In remembering that I am a Democrat, I cannot forget that I owe a higher allegiance to the American Union. I should be glad to remain in the Democratic party, could I believe that in doing so I am not sacrificing those principles of patriotism that are higher and holier than any statement of mere party fealty. I believe that the war was inaugurated by the South in the interest of slavery. I believe it was the duty of the Government to resist the heresy of secession by arms. I believe the calling out of troops, the draft of soldiers, the prosecution of war against rebellion, was constitutional and necessary for the preservation of our republic. I believe the emancipation of slavery was necessary and unavoidable as a war measure. I believe the creation of a national debt grew out of the exigencies of the long-continued and desperate conflict. I believe the issue of a paper currency was an evil incident to the struggle. I believe the national debt should be paid to the last dollar in coin of the national mint, and that no form or measure of repudiation is consistent with national honor. I am opposed to the taxation of Government bonds as a breach of covenant made with the bond-holders, and I am opposed to paying these bonds with currency instead of gold. I am not in any degree fearful of negro supremacy, nor do I believe that if to the negroes are conceded their just rights under the law there will be any danger of elevating them to a social equality with any superior race. I am and ever have been opposed to mob violence, and I never will cast my vote nor use my influence to advance to high honors any man who, as Governor of a great Commonwealth, could fraternize with a mob or encourage opposition to just laws, or when the nation needed its last man to put down the rebellion, could, by opposing the draft, put himself and the State in hostility to the General Government. I could have supported a war Democrat like Hancock, or Hendricks. I could support a Republican like Frank P. Blair, Jr., your candidate for Vice President.—His early stand for the rights of the black man; his opposition to slavery; his brilliant war record, commencing in the streets of St. Louis, and ending in Sherman's march thro' Georgia, I approve; but as I cannot sustain Blair without sustaining Seymour, I feel in duty and conscience compelled to vote for Grant and Colfax. I shall expect the bitter animadversions of all who love the Democratic party better than they love their country. I shall expect to have my motives questioned and my honor impugned. I shall expect to be assailed by party malignity, and to have heaped upon me an unlimited amount of personal abuse; but, conscious of the rectitude of my motives, and in the confident belief that I am but doing my duty, I have deemed it proper to resign my position as a member of the Democratic State Central Committee. I therefore respectfully tender you my resignation, gratefully remembering our past pleasant relations, and entertaining for you all only kind personal feelings. I am, very respectfully, gentlemen,

P. H. SIBLEY.

San Francisco, July 13, 1868.

A Picture for Patriots to Ponder.

The Chairman of the Tammany convention at the time Horatio Seymour was nominated, was the rebel General Price, of Missouri, whose State never pretended to secede from the Union. Ex-Governor Vance—the leader of the North Carolina delegation which cast its first ballot for Seymour, and hastening to follow Ohio's lead, returned to its first love—declared during the war "that he was going to fight the Yankees until hell was frozen over, and then he would fight them on the ice. He subsequently addressed the Rebel soldiers in the trenches, and urged them to "pile hell so full of Yankees that their feet would stick out of the windows." This same unrepentant Rebel, who was so enthusiastic for Seymour, halted at Richmond en route home from the Convention, and declared that, in his opinion, what the Confederacy had fought for would be secured by the election of Seymour.—Henry A. Wise, another of the latter's enthusiastic supporters, declared upon the same occasion that he did not like the platform, because it said secession was dead, whereas it was more alive than ever. The nominees were, however, unobjectionable, inasmuch as they would restore the "lost cause."—The gentleman who nominated Blair for the Vice Presidency, was none than the Rebel General Preston, of Kentucky, who, if possible, deserved a severer punishment than the other insurgent leaders, inasmuch as he had not the excuse of State secession. He, in conjunction with Breckenridge, seduced thousands of the young men of Kentucky into the Confederacy.—Preston's nomination was seconded by Fort Pillow Forrest and Wade Hampton, who said in his recent address before the alumni and undergraduates of Lee's College, "the cause for which Jackson (Stonewall) fell, cannot be in vain; but, in some form, will yet triumph," who declared in his New York ratification speech that the disfranchised of the South should cast their ballots, and the bayonet must force an entrance for them into the ballot boxes.

Is it at all surprising that the nominations have fallen stillborn upon the Northern Democracy? In spite of the "gasconade" of their newspapers they do not fail to see that Lee's prediction has been verified, and the late insurgents have recaptured the Democratic party.—N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

☞Senator Morton delivered a speech in Indianapolis, on the 29th ult., in which we find the following, which we commend to our conservative readers:

You who want war, vote for Frank Blair, but you who want peace vote for Grant, for he said "let us have peace." (Loud applause.) No man now need be deceived. If any man is deceived it is because he intends to be; but if there is an honest man who wants peace, who wants the bleeding wounds of the country bound up, who wants us to return to the paths of prosperity and power, and development in every respect, he must avoid voting for that ticket. Frank Blair was put in nomination by a rebel officer from Kentucky, a member of that Convention, General Preston. His nomination was seconded by a rebel from South Carolina, Wade Hampton. He was nominated by the rebel element of the South, accepted by the rebel sympathizing element of the North, and he now stands as the Democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency, and that letter as the Democratic platform. It expresses fully and directly what is contained in the regular platform in a more general way; and now my friends let me consider for a few moments the character of that convention. One thing is to be observed, and that is that the Southern men want into that convention and took possession of it with just the same assurance that they did in the former Democratic conventions. The Democracy in that convention submitted to them with the same facility that they had always done, and I now ask my friends who were the Democratic delegates in that convention from the South? They were not the men who had been Union men during the war; but they were the men who had commanded the rebel armies, and filled the rebel Congress, and been Senators and Representatives; these were the men who came to that convention and represented the Democratic party, and made the nominations.

The examination will commence at 9 o'clock, A. M.

Teachers who are tardy in attendance need not expect admission into the class.

No teacher need apply for examination who will not submit to an examination in all the branches required by law.

Persons who are known to the Superintendent to use intoxicating drinks as a beverage, or to be of immoral character will not be examined. Those unknown to the Superintendent and directors must produce satisfactory evidence of good moral character.

Applicants are expected to be examined in the districts in which they apply for Schools. A certificate from the proper directors will be required before they can enter the class.

Directors are earnestly urged to be present at the examinations, and to make their selections of teachers, as far as practicable, on these occasions. Such a course would have a strong tendency to induce teachers to attend and prevent them from trying to evade a public examination. It would also relieve directors from much trouble in procuring teachers. It is hoped that those directors who favor the measure will give the requisite notices in their districts.

The special attention of directors is invited to the article headed "Teachers Salaries" found on page 46, Aug. No. Pennsylvania School Journal. It will be seen by the article referred to that the State Superintendent suggests that teachers be paid according to their proficiency, and according to their actual success in teaching. The article is most cordially commended.

The public are desired and respectfully invited to attend the examinations, but teachers who do not come to be examined but expect to be examined at some other place in the county are not invited, and if they will consult their own interests they will not attend.

D. F. TUSSEY, County Superintendent, Huntingdon County.

IF A HUMBUG,

What a wonder
That the doors
Are open wide;
Ever since the
First of August
Thousands have
Pain Paint applied.
Those who lie,
Or call it humbug,
Are the doctors,
Not acquaint;
For they always
Have been jealous
When their patients
Use Pain Paint.
Pile up lists
As high as mountains,
Flash the truth
Before their eyes,
But the cry
Is always humbug,
Men of science
Full of lies.

People know that liniments composed of Cayenne pepper, turpentine, hartshorn, ether, &c., will produce inflammation and pain. To purchase such trash to stop Pain and Inflammation is ridiculous. Fire will not stop heat; a dumb brute shuns the heat, and knows enough to wade in a pond of water, when wounded, to reduce, cool, and cure Inflammation and Fever.

Pimps and gamblers try to look honest, but folks can read the face too plainly. Some try to persuade the ignorant that pills, physic, &c., cleanse the blood, purge the system, and do a hundred other things equally absurd. Everybody knows that it is false, and that no medicine can purify or increase a drop of blood. Food makes blood, bone, and muscle, and is the Staff of Life. Every dose of medicine swallowed is rejected, and hurried out of the system as quick as possible. It is an enemy; y

We have received a gratuitous little advertising sheet, intended to be published monthly at Shirleysburg by Mr. Wm. A. Fraker, which flies the ominous name of the Herald, and which amongst other things supports the Democratic ticket. We expect it will have a good run—in the ground.

"During my long commercial experience," said Girard, "I have noticed that no advantage results from telling one's business to others, except to create jealousy or competition, when we are fortunate, and to gratify our enemies when otherwise." He was never known to disregard this theory, in all his protrated career as one of the greatest and most successful of merchants.

Considerable excitement was created at Pittsburgh recently by the arrival there from Chicago of a large number of cattle, all more or less affected with the "Spanish" or "Texas fever." Wash in this two and a half pounds of rancid butter. When every particle of the butter has come in contact with the water, let it stand an hour or two; then wash it well in pure water. Try this recipe, and if it does as represented, all we ask is a year's subscription for our trouble.

GRANT AND COLFAX

as candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, and endorsing the ticket that may be nominated by the Republicans of this county.

The meeting will be held in front of the Franklin House, on the Diamond, or, if the weather should be unfavorable in the Court House, and will be addressed by

Hon. THOS. M. MARSHALL, of Pittsburg, and

New Diocese.

At the annual Episcopal Convention held in Philadelphia last May, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That this Convention consents to the formation of a new Diocese within the limits of the existing Diocese, to be composed of the 30 counties bordering on the Diocese of Pittsburg, as follows:—Bradford, Tioga, Sullivan, Lycoming, Columbia, Montour, Northumberland, Schuylkill, Berks, Lebanon, Dauphin, York, Lancaster, Adams, Cumberland, Perry, Juniata, Snyder, Union, Clinton, Centre, Mifflin, Huntingdon, Franklin, Fulton, Blair, Bedford, Clearfield, Potter and Cameron, but that the Bishop shall not be asked to give his consent thereunto until he has secured evidence that two-thirds of the clergy, and parishes representing two-thirds of the communicants reported in 1867, approve of being set off as a new Diocese; and that $2,500 a year for five years be secured for the support of the new Episcopate.

The Crops.

Once more our readers may rejoice at the prospect of cheap bread. For the past six years with a full or scant harvest the people have paid prices for bread entirely disproportioned to the price of labor. Many causes have operated in producing and continuing this state of things, but the chief cause may be traced to "corners," combinations and monopolies in the market.—The wheat has been bought up by the capitalists on speculation, and held till people must buy at any price or stop eating. This may be easily done when the wheat harvest is limited to certain States or localities, but this year the wheat crop is splendid all over the country; wheat growing was nearly abandoned a few years ago, but the incoming crops promise abundantly. The fields are too numerous and wide spread for the wheat Shylocks to enter this season.

Death on the Rail.

A man named Patrick Riley took passage at Pittsburg last week, in a stock car, attached to fast freight east, and shortly after the train passed Mifflin he fell from his seat, and died in a few minutes. Two letters were found upon his person, and one of these contained the address of his brother, who resides in New York.—Previous to his death nothing unusual was noticed in his appearance. Deceased was apparently about 35 years of age. His remains were conveyed to Harrisburg, and from thence forwarded to New York.—Altoona Vindicator.

Admitted to the Bar.

On Monday last, on motion of R. M. Speer, Esq., the following young men were admitted to the practice of law:—A. J. Riley, J. S. Blair, T. W. Myton, Miles McNeil, and Samuel Flemming. We understand they all passed a creditable examination, and we hope to hear of each and all making their mark wherever they may conclude to hang out their shingles.

The following officers have been elected for the present quarter, in the Y. M. C. A. of this place:

The Bankrupt Act.

This gives five months more time for the application of those who have no assets.

☞ Rev. J. W. Plannett of the Baptist Church of this place is now on a visit to the West. The congregation made him a purse of money sufficient to bear his expenses. The regular services in the Church will be conducted on Sunday next by Rev. D. P. Leas of Shirleysburg.

"The War between the States, its Causes, Character, Conduct and Results," by Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, is the title of a valuable work just issued by The National Publishing Company, Philadelphia, Pa.

Histories of the late civil war have sprung up like mushrooms, and they can now be numbered almost by hundreds, but all who are desirous of arriving at a correct understanding of the causes, and a clear history of the events of the late lamentable war, have felt the want of reliable history of the same from a Southern stand-point, by some representative man of the South. This want is about to be supplied by Alexander H. Stephens. Mr. Stephens was a most earnest protestant against rebellion, and only succumbed at the last moment, when his State, in spite of his warning, committed the great error.

The bare announcement that this distinguished Statesman had determined to write a book, would of itself, be sufficient to kindle a lively and wide-spread interest in all sections of the country; but when it is known that he has chosen as his theme the one so fruitful as THE LATE AMERICAN WAR, the absorbing interest of the subject, together with the evident and singular fitness of the author for its treatment, unite in awakening a curiosity entirely unparalleled in the annals of American literature.

It presents a careful political analysis of the past, separating REAL from APPARENT causes of the late unhappy conflict, and gives those interior lights and shadows of the Great War, ONLY KNOWN TO THOSE HIGH OFFICERS, who watched the flood-tide of Revolution from its fountain-springs, and which were so accessible to Mr. Stephens from his position as second officer of the Confederacy.

To a public that has been surfeited with APPARENTLY SIMILAR PRODUCTIONS it presents a change of fare, both agreeable and salutary, and intellectual treat of the highest order. The Great American War has AT LAST found a historian worthy of its importance, candid and impartial treatment which truth and justice so urgently demand.

This most valuable work is sold only by subscription, and the publishers want an agent in every County. †

It is Only Necessary

To give Mr. Speer's "Standard Wine Bitters" a fair and judicious trial, to be fully convinced that they are superior to any other offered to the public, or to the medical profession, as a remedy for debility arising from the inactivity of the different functions of the system. Their base is his Wine, combined with the bitter principle of the best tonics, (herbs and roots,) known to practical chemists. SPECIAL NOTICES.

PREMATURE DECAY.

Thousands go annually into premature graves because they neglect to preserve that inestimable blessing—good health. Sufferers from Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Constipation and similar ailments, your disease will take its inevitable course and end your days on earth, perhaps suddenly, unless you take the means to prevent it. But beware of false methods and use only a sure protection against the cause of these diseases, as well as the only absolute remedy for them. Fortify yourselves at once by a course of Mishler's Herb Bitters, and thus render your constitution and physique invulnerable to the attacks of epidemic disorders and the ordinary complaints which prevail in every locality. The most distinguished physicians of the present day use it in their practice, and positively declare that the whole science of medicine possesses no remedy that is half as efficacious for diseases arising from a disordered Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Intestines, &c., as Mishler's Herb Bitters. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Dr. S. B. Hartman & Co., Proprietors, Lancaster, Pa. aug12,1m.

Working of the Reconstructed Governments.

[From the New York Times.]

The pro-rebel crusade against Reconstruction would be more plausible and more just if it were less directly at variance with facts revealed by the working of the new Governments. If their organization rested upon sweeping and permanent measures of proscription, or if in their operation they were found making war upon particular classes, upon property, or upon the enterprise and industry on which the prosperity of the South must be rebuilt, it would be easy to extenuate, and perhaps to justify, the course of the Southern leaders. Their policy might not admit of defense, but the causes of their action would be apparent, and a certain reasonableness would be conceded to it. What then, generally, are the facts in regard to the seven States which have been restored to the Union under the Reconstruction acts?

The new Governments are at work in all of them. They have been organized under great difficulties. Circumstances have in many instances favored the pretensions of inferior men, and have lent importance to matters and influences which it is not desirable to perpetuate in their present shape. There is a lack of experience in many directions, and there are in all sources of embarrassment and difficulty which no candid observer will ignore. Very large allowance should, in fact, be made, as well for the men composing the new Governments as for their proceedings.

And yet their most malignant assailants confine their attacks to general denunciation of the nature of the Governments and the authority which called them into existence. With the exception of North Carolina, where a disposition to tread in the footsteps of Brownlow is attributed, not altogether without reason, to Governor Holden, we look in vain for specific allegations of harshness or wrong. Even there, judging from experience elsewhere, it is fair to set down something to partisan exaggeration, and to the circumstances which narrow the Governor's choice of procedure. Besides, supposing his spirit to be bitter, it does not appear to have impregnated the Legislature, and it certainly has neither warrant nor aid in the labors of the State Convention. The provisions of the local Constitution are eminently wise; and there is an evident appreciation, both by the Legislature and the Executive, of the educational and material needs of the State.

In Louisiana, again, the course of events is not so smooth as the friends of the South desire it to be. The operation of the Government is impeded, and current references to the probable necessity of Federal interference beto ken a feebler civil authority than is required when dealing with organized and unscrupulous enemies. This condition of things, however, implies nothing discreditable to the new Government. It is not charged with an abuse of power, or with neglect of duty, or with aught prejudicial to the industry and credit of the State. If its embarrassments are more serious than those of any other State, it is because in Louisiana the spirit of hostility to all loyal authority is more defiant, and practically more formidable that in the other six States. A fact which does not reflect unfavorably on reconstruction, but rather vindicates the stringency of some of its measures.

Nor has the abusive ridicule with which the new Government of South Carolina has been assailed, provoked its legislators to depart from the sensible course marked out by the Constitutional Convention. Unfortunate jealousies have shown themselves, and practical measures are retarded by questions of patronage. But we trace no sign of the extreme measures which disaffected whites profess to dread. The "negro legislature," as it is called, is in truth more moderate, and withal more just than its assailants. And the opening message of the new Governor gave proof of the sagacity and good feeling with which the authority of the Executive will be exercised.

Alabama has advanced further, and in some respects more satisfactorily. The Common-Carrier bill, providing for the unrestrained and equal access of whites and blacks to railroad cars and steamboats creates excitement; but its significance is infinitely less than the favor with which efforts for the removal of all disabilities are regarded by the Republicans. "The native Republicans generally favor it," a despatch from Montgomery reports, and the time is not distant, we trust, when it will be successful. The worst obstacles to this and every other measure tending to reproduce harmony is the fierce opposition of those whom it is proposed to benefit.

The position of affairs in the Georgia Legislature is not less creditable. More appears to have been done there than in any other State towards the blending of moderate elements, irrespective of partisanship, and the Legislature is evidently riper and under more sagacious leadership. Were it not for the wild harangues of Toombs and Cobb and Ben. Hill, Georgia might be supposed to be reconstructed in heart as well as in form. We don't know that their folly should be held to prove otherwise, but it displays the nature of the opposition to be encountered. Judging of the rebel orators by their speeches, and the reconstructed Government by its action, it is safe to conclude that the latter has much the stronger claim upon the respect of the State. Its worst enemies are they who in its name seek to reopen questions which reconstruction has righteously and, as we believe, effectually settled.

☞ Horatio Seymour, Democratic candidate for President of the United States, during the war used these words:

If it is true that slavery must be abolished to save this Union then the people of the South should be allowed to withdraw themselves from that Government which cannot give them the protection guaranteed by its terms.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your father, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on Southeast corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.

PAIN OR CRAMP IN THE STOMACH OR BOWELS,
CHOLERA MORBUS,
HEADACHE,
NEURALGIA,

LIVER TONIC,
AND FOR ALL FEMALE DISEASES.

As an agreeable and safe remedy and an Invigorating Beverage it has no equal.

This valuable Bitters is composed of the essential properties of roots—the medicinal qualities of which have been carefully extracted. It is agreeable to the taste and does not leave that unpleasant taste in the mouth for hours after, that most medicines do.

As a Blood Purifier and Liver Tonic it has no equal.—It contains no alcohol or other injurious drug, but is purely vegetable.

For Dyspepsia it cannot be excelled. It contains nothing injurious to the stomach, is mild and prompt in its action and effects a permanent cure by removing the cause of the complaint.

For Intermittent Fever or Chills and Fever this Bitters is a specific far better and surer than quinine.

No family should be without it as the cost is trifling compared with the suffering that may be avoided by having it at hand in case of sudden attack.

Weakly Persons use the Oriental Bitters.
Invalids use the Oriental Bitters.
Dyspeptics use the Oriental Bitters.
